1. Claims 1-26 are presented for examination.

2. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefore, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

3. Claims 20-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter as being intangibly embodied in a manner so as to be a program product stored on a recordable medium when executed. The statement of "program product stored on a recordable medium when executed" is not clearly stated that they are executed by a computer. Thus, the applicant is recommended to amend the claimed language to make clear that they are computer executed in order to overcome the 35 U.S.C. § 101 rejection.

4 The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. §102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

Claims 1-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 102(a) as being anticipated by Beyda [U.S. Patent No. 6,766,422].

Beyda anticipates (e.g., see Figs. 1-2) the invention substantially as claimed. Taking claim 1 as an exemplary claim, the reference anticipates a method for asynchronously processing requests, comprising:

a) receiving a request for a Uniform Resource Locator (URL) from a client, and obtaining a session object corresponding to the request (e.g., see Fig. 2, col. 3, lines 2-27)) ;

b) generating a response identifier based on a session identifier and the URL (e.g., see col. 3, lines 2-27);

c) determining if the URL was previously requested by the client based on the response identifier (e.g., see col. 3, lines 2-27), col. 3 (line 55) to col. 4 (line 60));

d) generating a response refresh header that includes a time value for causing the client to automatically send a subsequent request for the URL (e.g., see col. 3 (line 55) to col. 4 (line 60)); and

e) sending a temporary response to the request and the response refresh header to the client (e.g., see col. 3 (line 55) to col. 4 (line 60)).

5. As to claim 2, Beyda further anticipate the step of sending the request to a response caching system with an instruction to cache a final response to the request according to the response identifier (e.g., see col. 3, lines 2-27, col. 3 (line 55) to col. 4 (line 60)).

6. As to claim 3, Beyda further anticipate the request is a web request (e.g., see col. 3 (line 4), col. 5).

7. As to claim 4, Beyda further anticipate the response identifier comprises the session identifier and a hash of the URL (e.g., see cols. 3-4)).

8. As to claim 5, Beyda further anticipate determining if a final response to the request is complete, prior to the generating step; and sending the final response to the client if the final response is complete, wherein the refresh header is not generated and sent to the client with the temporary response if the final response is complete (e.g., see cols. 3-5).

9. As to claim 6, Beyda further anticipate commencing generation of a final response to the request; and storing the final response in a cache according to the response identifier when the final response is complete (e.g., see cols. 3-5).

Art Unit: 2153

10. As to claim 7, Beyda further receiving a subsequent request for the URL from the client after expiration of the time value in the response refresh header; obtaining the session object; generating the response identifier; determining whether the URL was previously requested based on the response identifier; checking the cache for the final response to request based on the response identifier; and sending the final response to the client if the final response complete, wherein a new refresh header is generated and sent to the client with a new temporary response if the final response is not complete (e.g., see cols. 3-5).

11. As to claim 8, Beyda further anticipate the determining step comprises checking a table in the session object for the response identifier to determine if the URL was previously requested by the client (e.g., see col. 3, lines 2-27), col. 3 (line 55) to col. 4 (line 60)).

12. Claims 9-26 similar in scope as of claims 1-8, and therefore claims 9-26 are rejected for the same reasons set forth above for claims 1-8.

13. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

The references are cited in the Form PTO-892 for the applicant's review.

A shortened statutory period for response to this action is set to expire 3 (three) months and 0 (zero) days from the mail date of this letter. Failure to respond within the period for response will result in ABANDONMENT of the application (see 35 U.S.C 133, M.P.E.P 710.02, 710.02(b)).
